WORLD GUNMAN IS CENSURE

WORLD-wide condemnation or Tuesday night's massacre at Lod Airport continued yesterday. Only the Arab states, excepting Jordan, where King Hussein strongly censured the attack, and the Yugoslav Government, chose either to applaud the slaughter or blame Israel.

It takes peculiarly twisted minds to conceive or perpetrate such an act as occurred at Lod, as Hussein noted. It takes an equally uncommon moral obtuseness to seek, in whatever fashion to justify it.

The Arab press and Egypt's Prime Minister have expressed in grotesque manner, the degree to which their hatred of Israe has driven them beyond the pale of elementary scruple for human life. And what is telling is not merely the moral isolation involved in this reaction, but the very willingness to exhibit for all to see that for them the common standards of men do not

This fanaticism, and the murderous acts to which it leads, has itself been nourished by the tepid response which has greeted it in the past. And it matters not whether the example is the Red Cross reaction to the Sabens hijacking, or a more distant in-cident such as the condemnation Israel suffered when it destroyed moccupied planes in Beirut, or the apologetics granted the ter-rorist version of Arab nationalism by the "New York Times."

The fact is that in Israel's war against terror, it has been forced to stand slone, subject always to sharper protests for its counter actions than the fanatics received for their lant atrocities. The nature and scale of the The nature and scale of the Lod slaughter will perhaps prompt a more profound and serious minded response, not only on the part of editorial writers in various capitals, but also in Foreign Offices and those bodies involved in international.

The example of the French Pilots Union in demanding more stringent security measures than air travel their sirline provides, may, it is hoped, be a significant sign.
And it can be assumed that even as Lebanon loudly broadcasts its fears of Israeli repricasts its lears of israel reprisal, these protests of innocence no longer attract the sympathies abroad that they have enjoyed in the past. The question however is whe ther the world reaction will merely be a matter of the mo-ment, or whether indeed it will lead to such security measures and such explicit alienation from terrorist methods as to have a more lasting effect.

And the question for the Arab world is whether its values are to be represented by those who justify atrocities or those who join the rest of mankind in

IDENTIFIED

TOKYO. - The surviving Japanese terrorist who staged the bloody massacre at Lod has been identified as Kozo Okamoto, 24, a younger brother of one of nine Leftist Radicals who hijacked a Japan Airlines jetimer to North Korea from Japan in April 1970, Japanese police reported yesterday. National police said the man, who first identified himself as Dalauke Namba, proved to be the brother of Takeshi Okamoto, 28, who now re-portedly lives near Pyongyang, capital of North Kores, with the other eight hijackers.

Police said they confirmed the men's identity after exchanges of information between the National Police Agency and the Japanese Embassy in Israel. Officials described the younger Okamoto as a drop-out from Kagoshima University's Agricultural Science Department in Kagoshima, southern Japan.

His false passport bears the name of "Daisuke Nambe," but that was an alias. The real Daisuke Namba was a Korean hanged 50 years ago for trying to assassinate Emperor Hilrohito. Japan's Kyodo News Service re-

BEIRUT (UPI). - President Abmed Hassan al Bakr of Iraq announced the nationalization of the Western-owned petroleum company Iraq LP.C.

The announcement followed the failure of negotiations between the Iragi Government and LP.C. and its associates on Government demands that crude production be increased.
The Iraq Petroleum Company jointly owned by British Petroleum, Royal Dutch Shell, Compagnie Francaise des Petroles and Standard Oil of New Tersey.

Bakr said in a broadcast that the nationalization would take immediate effect.

Bakr accused the I.P.C. of "cutting production to a point which was unprecedented in Iraq or in any other oil-producing country." He said I.P.C. thought that by doing so, it would plunge Iraq into an economic ordeal" and "force the revolution to retreat from Jerusalem Post Arab Affairs Reporter Jordan's King Hussein yester-day condemned the massacre at Lod airport, stating that the act was "a crime perpetrated by men-tally sick people.

"We condemn it and we regret ::

very, very deeply," Hussein said at Amman airport on bidding farere: to Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali

The Jordanian monarch was quoted by Amman Radio as saying that "quarters encouraging the commitment of such crimes must be themselves sick in mind in the full sense of the word." He said such a crime "contradicted the Arab spirit."

Hussein's remarks were in sharp contrast to other Arab statements In Cairo, Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidky last night haded the missacre as a "daring operation." Delivering his monthly nationwide speech over Cairo TV, Sidky boasted nat the Lod airport shooting proved that the Arabs were capable of achieving victory over Israel.

The only other Arab source to denounce the massacre, beside King Hussein, was Lebanese Foreign Minister Khalil Abu Hamad, who was yesterday quoted by the Belrut press ture or source, that may harm innocent civilians and outsiders."

Abu Hamad's condemnation came as Lebanon continued intensive Security preparations following Promier Golda Meir's warning that Lebanon would be held responsible for supporting the terrorists, who have their headquarters in Beirut.

MAKARIOS AND THE THREE BISHOPS

By ANDREAS HADJIPAPAS AFTER a couple of months' pause. NICOSIA (Gemini). -Cyprus's three senior bishops are making preparations to renew their attack on Archbishop Makarios, President of the island Republic for the past 12 years. They called a kind of truce in late March mainly because of two events: Easter, the "feast of love" as it is known in the Greek Orthodox Church; and the illness of one of the bishops. Now the bishop is slowly recovering from a bad heart attack and the indications are that the three men have not softened their demand that Makarios should quit the Presidency.

But Makarlos has not resigned as did not act out of true devotion to deep row with the Greek army-

But the charges they levelled against the Archbishop were well-founded. They emphasized, for example, that the Cyprus Church was committed to the national ideal of enosis (the island's union with Greece) and the Archbishop had the Holy Syrod, the supreme body They further point out that "betrayed" this ideal, because he of the Cyprus autocephalus church, throughout the history of the Greek was Head of State of an independent They said Makerics should with-draw from politics because his hold-came involved in political move-that way, instead of striving for > supposed to be fighting atheism and communism. Instead, Makarios was on friendly terms with the local Communists, relied heavily on their power, and even paid an official visit to Moscow. More recently, they added, Makarios bought a large consignment of arms from an Iron Curtain country, Czechoslovakia, to fight his opponents. And this, in their view, was totally unacceptable for a church leader.

> The bishops also contended that

on his life in 1970, Makarios has been under the "shadow of death," he should give up politics, comine himself to his religious duties and thus free himself of the "anguish" and fear. Makarios, much smarter than the three put together, re-"My life may be in peril plied: every day, but I am not concerned about it. In offering a national service to my country. And this is the main ground which he bases his whole stand. He believes that his holding of public office "in the present critical circumstances" in the island's history, amount to a "national duty," and therefore does not run counter to the letter or spirit of the Scriptures, the church rules, or the ageold traditions of the Church.

This is not "temporal power," in his view. Because he does not get any "sweet delight or recreation" out of his presidential duties. As he put it: "To me the presidential office has offered me many times only a cup of bitterness and sor-

Anyway, the truce seems to be over. The three bishops are reportedly planning to get together again to put the Archbishop on trial, for his refusal to comply with their de-

If they do that, Makerios may decide either to announce his resignation, or to fight it out with his "dear brethren in Christ," as he called them in his letter. He could appeal to a higher court - with prelates from other churches sitting in Or he could find ways of "neu-tralizing" the three bishops, who are elderly, ill and with little popular support.

At least one of them has not been able to go back to his See in Western Cyprus since the Synod meeting on March 2 in Nicosia, because Makarios supporters have occupied the hishopric and hostile crowds threaten to unfrock the bishop if he decides to go there. Then there is their ailing condition. Bi-shop Anthimos of Kitlum and Bishop Kyprianos of Kyrenia are both suffering from their heart — and Bishop Yennadios of Paphos is too old to stand firm on his feet.

"We're reaping the results of helf a century's fight against marijuane." he declares. "What I'm trying to do in my book is to put into focus the role of the American law enforcerole of the American law enforcement people in relation to drugs. They have intruded to an ever-increasing extent on the doctor's province. There has been a collision instead of a partnership, like there is in Great Britain, where the law agreement officers supposed the mediforcement officers support the medenforcement officers support the med-ical men. This is a very important aspect of the troubles we have through drug abuse."

Does this mean that he does not consider marijuana dangerous?

"It's certainly not in the same ca-agory as heroin: it shouldn't be tagory as heroin: it shouldn't be talked about in the same breath. The real issue is what you can legislate against, not what is good or bad for you. Drug abuse certainly isn't nearly as bad as alcohol: in America, we have 20 million people who drink to excess. Nine million of them have a major alcoholism problem, and three million are hopeless gutter cases. Alcohol causes nearly half of our 60,000 road fatalities a year. We tried to legislabe against alcohol and fatled. It has not even been proved that marijuana is as dangerous as tobacco, which we now know causes cancer, I wouldn't that we should have huge advertisements praising marijuans the way we have for sloohol or tobacco, but I do say that law enforcement has failed

"The history of anti-drug legislation in the U.S. is very revealing. It is not generally realized that drugs only became illegal in the thirties. When the Federal Government went into the question of alcohol prohibi-tion, they realized that a constitu-tional amendment was needed. But the law enforcement officers set out to expand their empire to include drugs: they did this by means of taxation, without any constitutional

You only have to look at the ruined tives of alcoholics and their families. Unfortunately, like France, we're a wine-producing country, so drinking is built into our

He sees only one answer to the alcoholic's problem: complete and absolute abstinence, for ever. "An occasional individual may be able to settle for a little social drinking, but he is such a rare exception that he doesn't affect the rule."

The real problem is how to re-habilitate the person who abuses drugs or drink, Dr. Hudolin does not see how this can be done in a framework of private medicine; there has to be a comprehensive plan which is socially, economically and politic-ally acceptable. FOR YOU AND ME

By Isaac Glikman (Grade 12), Brener High School Life can be rather moset, Life can be rather sweet,
But you have to be quite quick,
If you wish to taste.
Life is a chain of many cases,
Brings on many changes,
In people's figures and people's faces.
Each is more bitter than its former,
Each reminds its owner, Who was born a man to be.
That dust and ashes he shall be,
Also you and also me.

Oh, how foolish people are! Are we smarter than a doll of tar? The first of us wasn't honest. Ate an apple of wisdom and prudence, But nothing of it was left, People today are just dumb and deaf.

They bill each other, A boy murders his mother, Wars spread everywhere, But where is God? Tell me, where? Help me find God and heaven, For the sake of our world! Please help me Save the world's eternity!

Its main work is to direct and advise newcomers, and help errange requalification courses for those who cannot find jobs within the profession they brought. The organization is receiving considerable assistance in this work from the Weizmann Institute. It is also con-often left holding the hyphen: in the U.S.S.R. they constitute a large and recognized professional body operating on a level higher than that of technicians in the Western world, but not quite as diplomaed engineers. The Organization is now discussing with the Technion's President, Alexander Goldberg, a special course for 100 engineer-technicians that would qualify them as centres, frequently halled as the full engineers within six or eight best thing that has happened to our months — the Technion to provide

Many doctors and dentists have applied to the organization for help in setting up private practices. Julius Nadelman, secretary of its medical section and working at Hai-fa's Rambam Hospital, says that the 140 applicants will each require up to IL6,000 to equip such a practice. The figure for dentists is higher,

Funds for a further investment of this type to install qualified professionel men should not pose any problem, considering it costs IL180,000 to produce a doctor, and anything up to IL100,000 to turn out an engineer, Dr. Sheskin notes.

The main problem is a strengling shortage of funds. While the Association of Russian Immigrants in Tel Aviv receives an annual budget, Dr. Sheskin's group - which he describes as a purely professional institution without political affiliations — has no regular source of income, Its request to the authorities for a IL6,000 monthly grant has gone unanswered so far. Since May last year, it has received IL5,500 from the Absorption Ministry, of which IL-3,000 went towards the cost of organizing a two-day conference of Soviet immigrant doctors in Tel Aviv last March attended by 400 of the newcomers, Dr. Shes-kin notes that the actual cost of the conference, in which the travelling, lodging and other expenses of much higher.

Dr. Sheskin is convinced that these and other difficulties at least in part account for the drop in January and February of immigration from the U.S.S.R. Letters have gone off to Latvis, Lithuania and Georgia saying, in effect, "It's a beautiful country, but don't hurry." Of the 45,000 Soviet immigrants expected in 1972, some 10,000 have arrived in the first four months of the year. And for the attention they have attracted in the press, only 4,000 of Soviet Georgia's 75,000 Jews have so far made their way to Israel. Over the past two years, several hundred Soviet Jews have emigrated directly to the U.S.

To do its job adequately, its chairman points out, the Organization of Newly Arrived Professionals also urgently needs a centre for its activities. At present operating from a makeshift office, it requires minimal space for an office, a library and study, a room in which officials of the Absorption and Health Ministries would be easily accessible to answer inquiries, space for social activities and a rest

Dr. Sheskin has just returned from a visit to the U.S. where his efforts on behalf of Soviet immig-rants have helped rally energetic support by Senator Fred Harris of Oklahoma for American financial assistance to the newcomers in Israel. Sen. Harris, a member of the Senate Committee on Government Operations, visited Israel last February for an on-the-spot study of

$8.5m, aid

In inserting a lengthy statement on the subject in the Congressional Record, the Senator particularly praised the work of the Organization for Newly Arrived Professionals. He said that in his view the State Department, in making best use of the $85m. authorized for this purpose in the Foreign Aid Authoriza-tion Bill, may find that the most efficient way to help the new arrivels 'may be to make use of non-governmental organizations which are trying to meet the spethe participants were refunded, was cial needs of the new immigrants."

SOFTENED REALITY

TITTORIO de Sica's Occar-win-V ning The Garden of the Finzi-Continis (Gordon, Tel Aviv and Habirah, Jerusalem) is sensitively directed, finely acted and a visual de-light. Yet I can well understand author Glorgio Bassani's vigorous complaints about distortion and misinterpretation. (According to producer Arthur Cohen the differences have now been troped out). The realities of the original autobiographical novel about the destruction of two particular Jewish families in the Italy of the fascist-wartime 'thirties have disappeared in the haze of the soft focus photography and the remote, dreamlike quality of the whole film. Except for the end when the artistocratic Finzi-Continis along with other Jews, are herded into an empty schoolhouse to await deportation to an internment camp. the film does not touch the emotions as the characters never have actuality and are too elegant, too gismorized to be identified with human beings who lived, rejoiced and tini (beautiful Dominique Sanda), a dream girl out of reach who, when she does take a lover, chooses a Gentile friend of her brother's. The brother, Alberto, a handsome, delicate young man who seldem ven-tures beyond the limits of the highwalled estate, is acted by Helmut Berger and there is a tiny cameo portrait of Michol's old grandmother by a non-professional called Inna Alexels. The photography was by Ennio Guarnieri.

Le Chat (Ben Yehuda, Tel Aviv) based on a story by Georges Sime-non, is a grim study of the relationship between an elderly couple who have come to believe they hate one another. Clemence (Simone Signoret) is fifty and Julien (Jean Gabin) sixty. He lavishes his affection on his cat and she, with a glass of wine seldom away from her lips, does not want to realize their marriage is in ruins and is widly jealous of the creature who share their home.

The film Is not only notable for the outstanding performances of Si-mone Signoret and Jean Gabin but Lino Capolicchio plays Giorgio, has been sklifully directed by Pierre the narrator, a young man from Grander-Deferre who stresses the second Jewish family, who is horrible, noisy, urban surroundings
